Ruwudu - About

About this project

Ruwudu is the Manga word for "writing". This style of writing is used by the Manga people in Niger, West Africa. This font was initially designed as a lighter or companion version of Alkalami Regular. The design is still very much influenced by the Rubutun Kano style, but was based on samples of footnotes from the market edition manuscripts. These were made with a monoline tool, likely a ball point pen or something similar. The extreme swashes and tails of Alkalami are replaced by more classic and reserved shapes.

For more information on the visual characteristics of the font see Design.

Future plans

The highest priorities for future additions and enhancements are mainly driven by:

- Requests from language communities using the fonts
- Needs of the linguistic and academic community
- New additions to The Unicode Standard

Please send us your requests using the form on the font website. If you are interested in helping us make the font better see the Developer page.
